Democratic Leaders Map Big Drive Against Cong. Curtis . . Fight May Affect the 1956 GOP Gubernatorial Picture . . .

Democratic leaders have decided to launch a fulldress, all-out drive against Congressman Laurence Curtis, who will be standing for reelection to a second term in November. Even ex-Governor Paul A. Dever reportedly has taken a hand in the behind-the-scenes planning of the fight to uneset Civilia.

This may prove a make-or-break political battle for Curtis and affect the Republican gubernatorial picture in 1956, or whenever Governor Christian A. Herter may decide to turn over the reins of the state government to a

Off on an Hour's Vacation!

To be honest with you, we're not certain where he's going. He may be journeying to a branch office of his corporation . . . or he may be heading home for the day . . . or he may just be taking his afternoon "constitutional" behind the wheel.

But one thing we know for certain. He's about to embark on a little vacation. And for its length, it will be one of the most wonderful interludes a man could hope to enjoy.

For he's about to spend an hour in his 1954 Cadillac -and here, beyond any question, is the perfect remedy for a trying day.

It will bring him physical relaxation—for his Cadillac is so comfortable and luxurious that merely to sit in the driver's seat is to rest. And the car handles and steers with such complete effortlessness that every mile is a tonic for the body.

It will bring him mental refreshment—for the car is such a joy to drive and ride in that a man seems almost automatically to leave his cares at the curbside.

And it will bring him renewed enthusiasm and interest—for every moment a man spends with his Cadillac serves as a stimulating reminder of his past accomplishments-and acts as a wonderful inspiration for planning and thinking out the future.

All this, of course, is the very essence of Cadillac value. All cars offer transportation—and varying degrees of satisfaction. But it remains for Cadillac to provide a definite therapeutic for the mind and body of a work-weary man. In this glorious respect, there are simply two types of cars: Cadillacs and all the others. Come in sometime-when life has grown stale with the toil of the day-and take an hour's vacation in a

Political Overtones

Whittier declared himself a candidate for the Governorship in 1956 in his speech at the G.O.P. State Convention accepting the endorsement for Lieutenant Governor, an address, incidentally, which caused a lifting of political eyebrows on the part of many listeners who expressed the opinion that Whittier should win his current fight before looking ahead to another.

Curtis announced himself a contender for Governor in 1952, but he revised his plans and ran instead for Congress, when Christian A. Herter was persuaded to enter the gubernatorial field. Both Curtis and Whittier face stern tests of their vote-getting ability in the coming election. Standing across the political path Whittier is travelling is Representative James A. Burke of Hyde Park, Democratic candidate for lieutenant-governor who is proving himself one of the most dynamic and colorful campaigners in his party.

The Democratic banner will be carried against Congressman Curtis by former Assistant U. S. Attorney Jackson J. Holtz of Brookline. While Holtz is not as potent a contender as Representative Burke, he is running in a district where party big-wigs believe he may pull a big vote.

For the past two months, Democratic chieftains have been priming and grooming Holtz to make the fight against Curtis and have been persuading one candidate after another to withdraw from the primary field in order to assure Holtz of the nomination.

That Holtz will be nominated was virtually assured when City Councillor Frederick C. Hailer, Jr., of Roslindale retired from the contest. Hailer undoubtedly could have had the nomination, had he chosen to make a fight for

He was the Democratic nominee two years ago, and he made a good showing in the face of a Republican sweep. Had a Democratic tide been running, he might be serving on Capitol Hill from the 10th district today instead of Congressman Curtis.

But Hailer has been a combattant in the political wars for each of the past four years. He ran for the Massachusetts House of Representatives in 1950, for the City Council in 1951, for Congress in 1952 and for the City Council again in 1953. In three of those four yeyars he waged both primary and election fights.

Those campaigns drained the Roslindale Councillor both financially and physically, and while his supporters obtained signatures to qualify him for a place on the ballot as a candidate for Congress and urged him to make his fifth run in five years, Hailer abided by the counsel of those who advised him to view this election as a spectator on the sidelines and not risk burning out both himself and his organization.

How good a campaigner Holtz will prove remains to be seen, but he does have very substantial backing.
Curtis is a sound and solid vote-getter, and because of his association with the Disabled American Veterans, in which he has been extremely active, he is able to command extensive Democratic support from ex-servicemen.

He ran ahead of the rest of the Republican State ticket in 1950, and if some of his running mater had been able to display a little more strength in that election, Curtis might have defeated Charles F. Jeff Sullivan for the Lieutenant Governorship.

One of his big assets in his successful congressional fight two years ago was that Otis M. Whitney, then a member of the Governor's Council, served as a highly efficient campaign manager for him.

Whitney is now head of the State department of public safety, of course, and no longer able to take so active a part in politics. Curtis is certain to miss the help the politically astute Whitney gave him

The battle in the 10th congressional district, which has rever elected a Democrat since it was established in 1942 and has had only two Congressmen in that time, Curtis and Christian A. Herter, will be one of the most interesting waged anywhere in Massachusetts for a seat on Capitol Hill.

Herter Stronger Vote-Getter Than in 1952 But Ike's Absence From Ballot May Hurt

When Christian A. Herter was persuaded in the spring of 1952 to become a candidate for the governorship, it was tacitly understood that he was making a great political sacrifice for the Republican party.

years in Congress were in the field of for- tives in the November election. eign affairs and that he was relinquishing which was safely and securely his, to enter a contest in wich the odds would be heavily against him.

Comparatively few persons in either political party thought there was any real chance of defeating ex-Governor Paul A. Dever at the time Herter consented to make the fight against the vaunted DeThe lone exception which proves the make the fight against the vaunted Democratic vote-getter who had won election by staggering pluralities in both 1948 and 1950.

What the Republican leaders, who waited upon Herter in 1952 and asked him to run against Dever, really did believe was that he might muster enough strength to help the then General Eisenhower carry Massachusetts and enable the G.O.P. to regain control of the State Legislature, even though Herter himself would probably encounter his first political reverse.

Today, Governor Herter and Senator Leverett Saltonstall stand as the strong men of the Republican party in Massachusetts, ready to lead their State ticket into a fight in which their principal cause for alarm is the danger of complacency and over-confidence on the part of GOP work-

It is history now that instead of sacrificing his own public career for the Republican party, Herter scored a spectacular upset victory over ex-Governor Dever 21 months ago and then went on to demonstrate as much ability in the field of state government as he had in the sphere of international affairs while a congressman.

He lowered the state income tax 25 per cent; he brought some order out of the financially chaotic affairs of the MTA; he reorganized and streamlined several state agencies; he displayed an impressive leadership in a number of emergencies, including the tornado that ravaged the Worcester area; he gave greater home rule to the communities of Massachusetts; he launched a number of programs, including one to provide better homes for elderly persons in needy circumstances.

That, of course, is only a part of the record on which Governor Herter will be standing for a second term in an election in which he will be opposed either by Representative Robert F. Murphy or former Attorney-General Francis E. Kelly.

Herter today is the favorite, where two years ago he was an underdog. His name now is known in every home in Massac setts, where two years ago his prominence was confined largely to his own congressional district which covered seven Boston wards, the towns of Brookline and the city

Yet, there is no certainty that Herter will be reelected. He has reason to be concerned about possible complacency on the part of Republican workers, and one perfor the Democratic party. He son who is not over-confident about the can win and will win the final outcome of next November's gubernatorial election with the support of election is Christian A. Herter himself.

He knows that Massachusetts is normally a Democratic state, that no Republican can win a state-wide election on Republican votes alone and that to survive he drew from the contest-in which must draw some support from Democrats and Independents.

Another factor which cannot be disregarded in looking ahead to next autumn's election in Massachusetts is that President Eisenhower's name will not be on the bal-

That is to be expected. He polled so big a vote and so many divergent elements helped to elect him President, that he could not possibly have pleased them all.

Despite that inevitable loss, there is little question but that Eisenhower is still tremendously popular with the people, that he is still stronger than the Republican party and the GOP candidates generally would be aided if his name were on the

It is fair to state that Governor Herter would not have won election in 1952, if he had not drawn some of Eisenhower's strength. He had to have some strength of his own, of course, because Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., who also profited from Eisenhower's name being on the ballot, went down to defeat in the same elec-

President Eisenhower plans to come here next autumn near the close of the campaign to appeal for the re-election of Governor Herter and Senator Saltonstall. That will help the two GOP candidates considerably, but not as much as if Ike were running himself.

The shift of about five per cent away from President Eisenhower cannot be dismissed in a tight election. Herter topped Dever by about one-half of one per cent of the vote that was cast in the 1952 election.

Most Republicans believe, and with some justification, that the increase in and is now enrolled at Husson Governor Herter's own political strength, College in Bangor, Me. a great deal stronger in his own right than he was in 1952, for the circumstances will not be as favorable for him.

The absence of President Eisenhower's name from the ballot, incidentally, is one Nobody within the G.O.P. put it quite of the reasons political observers anticitate way, but the facts were that Herter's pate that the Democrats will regain concutstanding achievements during his 10 trol of the national House of Representa-

President Eisenhower has made it plain in recent weeks that he will take to the hustings to campaign for Republican congressmen and senators who have supported his program, and it has even been hinted that his help will not be denied party members who may have opposed certain of his pet measures.

That many of the GOP senators and congressmen plan to capitalize on Ike's popularity is reflected by the fact that so far 106 of them have had their pictures taken with the President for use in their campaigns.

An odd aspect to the situation is that in some respects President Eisenhower would have an easier time with a Democratic Congress than with one controlled by his own party, on foreign matters, for example. But a loss of Congress by the GOP would still be a heavy blow to his administration.

Massachusetts Regional Blood Center, American Red Cross, concerning the joint policy of the Massachusetts Medical Society and the Red Cross in connection with the Blood Program:

Blood, the special and perishable commodity for which there is no substitute, is more complex than trying to understand Russian dialectics at the U. N.

A joint committee of the Massachusetts Medical Society and the Red Cross is trying to simplify the complexities of a Blood Program for the benefit of hospitals, donors, recipients and members of their families. The committee points out that collecting and supplying blood for the sick and injured is an unique problem.

The 140,000 pints used annually for patients in Massachusetts hospitals is recognized as a tremendous quantity.

Most of it is given ▼oluntar ily-through hospital blood banks and through the Red Cross. A small amount is se-cured from professional donors.

Blood, therefore, is like nothing else in the capitalistic system under which we live. It is unlike planning, manufacturis unlike planning, manufacturing, marketing and purchasing

City Takes Action

Contend MDC Had No Right To Sell Without Consulting The City's Park Commission

INJUNCTION SOUGHT

The city, and its newly appointed Board of Park Commissioners, have brought suit against the MDC and Temple Tefila of Roxbury in a move to stop the sale of MDC land In Chestnut Hill Chestnut Hill.

The city claims the MDC had no right to sell the land without consulting the Park Commission; which was appointed nine days earlier than the date of the sale, or July 20. The deed has been delivered to the state treasurer, preparatory to being turned over to temple authorities on receipt of payment. MDC Commissioner Milton Cook of Newton Centre reports that summonses were sent to the MDC and distributed to the five commissioners last Thursday. A hearing on a temporary injunction will be held today (Thursday) in Suffolk Superior

The action is "an attempt to establish the right of the Park Commission to have a say" in the land transfer, Mayor Howard Whitmore, Jr., pointed out. The deed to the land from the MDC must have the approval of the Park Commission or the ap proval of the governor and his Council, the mayor said.

The Park Commission is not legally in office until next May, Commissioner Cook declared. City General Laws, Chapter 45, Section 2, Cook said that the mayor of a city may appoint a board of park commissioners for one, two, three, four and five years, to hold office from the May following the appointment. If there is no commission the sale cannot be stopped.

"It is no harder for a camel to get through the eye of a needle than it is for the temple to get some land for culture, recreation, education and spiritual needs," Mr. Cook said. He as-

The committee points up the story of six patients out of eighteen who enter a hospital. One of every three patients admitted will need blood, a survey reveals Patient A: He is not only a yearly donor but is associated with an organization that participates regularly in the Red Cross Blood Program. He is hospitalized for heart surgery. He needs four pints of O-positive blood. His associates in-form the Red Cross of his need, and the Red Cross relays information to the hospital that the Red Cross will meet his full needs. There is no charge for the blood; there are the hospital's legitimate admini-stration and handling charges.

Patient B: He is the employee of an organization actively par-ticipating in the Red Cross Blood Program. One-third of its total force of employees or members during the year donate blood. As a rare blood type, B-nega-tive, the supply and replace-ment job was a difficult one. His sudden, unexpected transfusions over a weekend revealed that hospitals must have a reasonable working supply for occasions such as this if lives are to be protected.

Our patient recovers. Through Red Cross and friends his blood needs have been supplied. There is no charge for receiving blood, therefore. But the hospital bills the patient for the handling and administration charges. There are no Red charges. Their Cross charges.

There is no over-all surplus of blood. It's a day to day, touch and go proposition.

The effort of hospitals and the Red Cross in recruiting donors is a joint responsibility. Hospitals, for their part, says the committee, should actively promote blood giving by families and friends and should not rely on the Red Cross for major Actually, years of research are back of the wide screen process, years of frustrating trial-and-error experimenting. In television, too, the big screen is the choice of the day, and it is similarly the product of years of research by the finest electronic specialists. > 'investigation has also revealed that in October, 1953, the Trustees for County Aid to Agriculture, who are responsible for the administration of the Middlesex County Extension Service, voted to have county cars suitably marked. Republican County Commissioner H. Herbert Applin assumed responsibility for attending to this matter and he reported at a Board of Trustees meeting in March, 1954, that "progress is being made." Now, in August, 1954, almost a year since the original proposal was voted by the Trustees, no attempt has yet been made toward identifying the twelve county cars.

"The careless attitude of the County Commissioners and Trustees, along with the deomission of last liberate month's Board of Trade meet ing, would seem to point toward gross neglect of official duty, the Association charged. Such neglect, at the most critical time in the history of the Middlesex County Extension Serv ice, forces the Association for Better County Government to wonder at the apparent lack of sincere interest demonstrated by the Trustees and County Commissioners toward their Service and to wonder if this lack of interest and supervision pervades other institutions governed by the Middlesex County Commissioners.

Political Overtones

A number of advantages rest with Murphy. He will have first place on the ballot and a notation under his name that he was nominated by the Democratic State Convention. He will have the support of the Democratic State Convention for whatever it may be worth, but most Democratic leaders probably will remain neutral and maintain a hands-off attitude.

Kelly, on the other hand, is better known than Murphy in many sections of Massachusetts because of the number of times he has campaigned across the State, and he has built up a sizeable personal following.

Murphy will be campaigning under wraps in the primary. He is looking ahead to the final election and is exercising care to avoid doing or saying anything that would impair his chances of achieving his ultimate objective—a victory over Governor Herter on Nov. 2.

Kelly can afford to gamble. He is a darkhorse candidate with the odds against him. He's trying to overturn the action and decision of the Democratic State Convention, and while he did exactly that back in 1936, he will be waging an uphill fight all the way. The man who may hold the key to the Murphy-Kelly battle is ex-Governor Paul A. Dever. A great many Democratic voters undoubtedly would follow his leadership and guidance, if he were to take the stump for Murphy. It was Dever who stepped in to prevent a prolonged deadlock of the Democratic State Convention and in so doing set the stage for the nomination of Murphy.

Dever's defeat at the hands of Governor Herter in 1952 still rankles with him. That was apparent from his speech at the State Convention two months ago and the emotion he displayed in deliver-

There is no question but that Dever wants political revenge next Nov. 2. He cannot obtain it as a candidate himself, but he can try to use Murphy as an instrument to secure it.

Political observers anticipate that Dever will do anything within his physical means next fall to promote Murphy's election chances. Whether that also will extend to supporting Murphy against Kelly is not known.

Aside from the fact that Dever considers that Murphy would be a stronger candidate against Governor Herter than would Kelly, there never has been any warm feeling between Dever and Kelly.

Dever himself had to fight off Kelly in a Democratic primary back in 1940, and the two have never been politically close.

The primary contest in which State Treasurer Foster Furcolo, Democratic nominee for U. S. Senator, finds himself involved is altogether different from the Murphy-Kelly battle.

None of Furcolo's opponents is as strong as Kelly, and there probably was a good deal of justification for the loud exclamation of relief by Furcolo, when Kelly decided he would not run for the Senate.

However, both former State Senator Joseph L. Murphy of Dorchester and former City Councillor John I. Fitzgerald of the West End are hopeful of defeating Furcolo for the nomination.

Ex-Senator Murphy, if he were running against Furcolo in a two-man race, would probably give the State Treasurer about all the trouble the latter could handle and perhaps even more.

Both Murphy and Fitzgerald believe they can outdraw Furcolo in Greater Boston and that only a small Democratic vote will be cast in the Springfield area where Furcolo concentrates his greatest strength.

There is some foundation for that opinion, but the fact that Furcolo has two Boston opponents, who will be cutting into each other, will improve his chances of surviving the primary.

Even though a number of Senators standing for reelection obviously would prefer not to vote on the question of censuring Senator Joseph R. McCarthy until after the election, the United States Senate would lose both prestige and respect, if the settlement of the issue were postponed beyond Nov. 2 for such a rea-

It is understandable that men from states where there is strong feeling both for and against McCarthy would be reluctant to be counted either for or against the Wisconsin Senator on the eve of a campaign, but there are times when they should either display some semblance of courage or quit in favor of somebody a little more stout-hearted.

Some Senators clearly felt they were getting "off the hook" when the troublesome matter was dropped into the lap of a six-member committee. The point of that action was that many Solons, whose terms expire the end of this year, are hopeful that they can vote for whatever report the committee submits without doing any serious political damage to themselves.

That, however, will depend on what conclusion the committee reaches, and it's quite possible that Senators in marginal States may have made a mistake in moving the settlement of the issue closer to

The only one of the six specifications offered by Senator Fullbright against Mc-Carthy which has a serious implication is the charge involving the Lustron fee. But if any action were taken on the basis of that allegation, the question might well be raised as to why the Senate waited so long to censure McCarthy on that score.

A great many persons, including some of McCarthy's own supporters, have never been able to understand the Senator's vi-cious attack upon General George C. Marshall, and President Eisenhower recently earned new admiration for the manner in which he stood up for his old chief.

But while McCarthy's attack on Mar

It is the guess of this writer that the six-member committee, comprised of three Republicans and three Democrats, will settle little or nothing and that it will split on party lines when it makes its report. That would leave the situation just about as confused as it is now.

It is pretty well understood that Senators Kennedy and Saltonstall were prepared to vote to censure McCarthy, if the Flanders resolution had been acted upon Augustus G. Means (R)

Senator Estes Kefauver established himself as one of the top contenders for the Democratic Presidential nomination in 1956 by his overwhelming victory in last week's primary in Tennessee.

Kefauver, of course, would have been eliminated from any Presidential consideration, if he had been defeated for renomination, and a serious blow would have been dealt to his prestige, if Congressman Pat Sutton had given him a close fight.

Since he survived the test in impressive fashion, it can be expected that Kefauver will begin running for the Presidency early in 1955.

The next two years may produce a colorful Democratic prospect who is receiving little attention at the present time. but if a choice were being made today of a candidate to carry the Democratic banner into a Presidential campaign, it would probably be from Adlai E. Stevenson, Senator Stuart C. Symington of Missouri and Kefauver.

Of the three, Kefauver has demonstrated the geratest potential vote-getting ability, and he did exceptionally well in ability, and he massachusetts general court fourth middlesex (Newton)

RANDOM CLIPPINGS

Something new in strikes was staged Charles P. Howard, Reading in Tokyo last week, when nearly 1000 tuberculosis patients participated in a 48hour "lie-down" demonstration in the stairways and corridors of their hospitals as a protest against new rules speeding the turnover of patients. One patient died and 330 others became seriously ill during the "strike."

When Beverly Talley of Coral Gables, Fla., identified Robert G. Tardiff as the man who had been peeping in her windows, Tardiff gave himself away by his indignant denial. Said he, couldn't identify me. She was in the closet." She apparently did pretty well at picking him out, wherever she was.

Popularity of Archery Has Grown Steadily

ing more and more a familiar

The popularity of archery has grown steadily in the past ten years. Today, among many campers, archery is the most popular activity in camp. At Fessenden Summer Day

Camp, director of archery Wes Merritt explains why archery is so popular.
"Archery is a sport in which boys with either good or poor coordination can be successful. Because holding the bow and learning how to use a "point of aim" are the only two physical factors involved, children are able to concentrate and im prove," states Wes Merritt. The award system set up by the Camp Archery Association of the United States helps make the climb from Jr. Yeoman to American Archer one of inter est and personal satisfaction to the young archer. The sevenyear old beginner starts shoot ing at 15 yards and succeeds through the 15 awards until he is shooting at a target 50 yards

In summer camps throughout There are many varieties of 'the land, the command of, archery. The Fessenden Archer'scan the Range!" followed by ery program provides opportunities in target shooting, field sink into the red, white, and blue archery targets is becomcamps, and demonstrations by experts.

Because this is a sport which can be carried into adulthood, communities are rapidly adopting it as a part of their recreational program. Archery golf has already taken the place of miniature golf in many parts of the country.

Safety is the primary factor in both camp archery and backyard archery. The archery range at Fessenden is conducted just as though it were a riflery range. After the range has been "scanned," a whistle indicates that arrows may be readied for firing. Two whistles indicate that the archery may go to the target and tally their

The best teams from the girls' leagues competed, including the Upper Falls, Newton Centre, Highlands, Nonantum and New tonville.

The tournament proved most successful in the number of thusiasm of the players and coaches. The Carr Playground girls had entered the tournament undefeated and were the favorites to win although serious opposition from the girls of the Upper Falls, also undefeat

The Hawthorn girls enjoying a bye in the first round took the Highlands team in the second round 9-2. The new champions, Carr, had an easy time with Newton Centre girls in the first round winning 28-7. The final game was a shut-out for Carr, winning 6-0 with a kind of baseball displayed which was worthy of champions. The girls agreed that no play er should be starred, that it was a team victory as each played her heart out to win the championship. All agreed that to their coaches, Mrs. Edith Wolcott and Miss Nancy Cummings should go the 9-Star rating for

Attorney General George Fingold, who is now standing for reelection to a second term, is a symbol of the broadening of the Republican party in Massachusetts during the past few years.

The News Is Good!

The best news out of Washington in many a week is that an upturn in economic recovery is definitely indicated.

Dr. Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, predicts that employment will rise, and that business spending for plant and equipment this year will be as high as it was in 1953. He expects military spending to "remain at very high levels."

The Commerce and Labor Departments report that the construction industry during May reached its highest levels with outlays of $3,100,000,000 for new buildings.

Private spending for residential building in May exceeded $1,000,000,000; commercial building, reversed a downward trend and rose to a record for the month.

No wonder John Q. Public is giving a resounding razzberry to the dismal song and dance of the Disharmony Boys — "Gloom and Doom!"

On the Way

The annual Labor Day weekend vacationers' scramble to close up the summer cottage, stack their cars to the rooftop and breast the holiday traffic will result in hundreds of deaths and thousands of injuries. Only by careful planning of the "closing up," sensible packing of the car, safe driving every mile of the way home, can serious accidents be avoided.

At least 400 highway deaths will happen over Labor Day weekend and thousands more will be injured in these crashes. Plus these, an untold number of vacationers will be injured by falling off ladders, falling down stairs, getting over-tired and overexerting in their mad rush to get the cleanup chores done as quickly

All these accidents are unnecessary. The cause is in not allowing enough time -the cure is for vacationers to do the job leisurely, orderly and with all hands pitching in. Keep these safety pointers in

Don't try to cleanup, fix up and pack up in one day. Allow plenty of time to do these things safely.

If you're using a ladder for boarding up windows take your time, take it easy, do it safely.

Don't leave gasoline, oil or other flammables in the cottage during the win-

Don't overload your car, it makes for poor steering, heavy handling in traffic and decreased visibility.

Don't wait until the last possible moment to start your trip home. Set a specific time to leave which allows you three hours for every hundred miles of driving. Don't try to beat your schedule.

Tips For Parents

How to travel with the kids and love 'em? Keep them safe, busy, comfortable and rested suggests the American Automobile Association.

Unless given some forethought, an eagerly anticipated family holiday can degenerate into a disappointing series of days on the road with cross, unmanageable little ones.

Here are a few tips that may prove

Make some safety rules before you take off — that (1) the children will not annoy or distract the driver, (2) refrain from playing with dashboard controls or cigarette lighters, (3) will not stick heads or arms out of car windows or play with doors andles. Be sure the doors are locked so they won't fall out on a sudden turn.

Keep them busy — when the novelty of the trip lags, a brand new jigsaw puzzle, riddle or crossword game can be worked on top of a suitcase; building blocks and color-in books can entertain the younger ones. Sing together and make up games an you go along — involving license plates, cars or animals. You could give a prize to the first child who sees a white horse; or, to the one who spots the most license plates from different states. There is an excellent game called Car-Tab for sale at gift and toy stores known as the Auto License Plate Game, which is educational as well as exciting. Take along favorite toys, and before leaving, raid the dime store for new ones; hide them until a new diversion is needed.

Keep them comfortable - dress them in simple, loose-fitting clothing with no tight arm or necklines, choosing non-crushable, easy-to-launder materials. Feed them lightly and avoid rich foods; have them drink plenty of water. It is wise to plan the main meal after the day's travel is over. Make short stops frequently so they can stretch their legs. If a child begins to feel car sick, move him to the front guided liberals. seat and let him suck a lemon.

Above all. . see that they get plenty of

Blocked in the Legislature in 1951 and stymied by a gubernatorial veto in 1952, they finally held an unofficial convention in June, 1952, when they picked a slate which included two persons of the Jewish faith, one of Italian descent, one of Irish-Catholic persuasion, and three so-called Yankees.

There was no force of law behind that conclave, and it had no official status or standing. But Republican leaders quietly served notice within their party that they would fight for the nomination of every candidate endorsed by the convention and Editor, Newton Graphic: that anyone challenging its decision would be signing his own political death warrant.

Attorney General Fingold was at least partly a product of that convention. He tain steps that can be taken to had helped his own cause by campaigning alleviate that situation. energetically for nearly two years, by speaking almost nightly before church and civic groups and selling himself and his candidacy.

But if the convention accomplished nothing else, it did help to make possible Fingold's election, and in that it justified itself, for he has been a good Attorney but the B & A would be best

One of Fingold's notable achievements has been the establishment of machinery to assure that millions of dollars left to Massachusetts charities by benefactors are used in accordance with the specified directions.

Fingold secured the adoption of a law this year creating in his office a special Division of Public Charities for the express purpose of supervising funds destined for charitable enterprises. Under the law all trustees of public charities must but since most of them have aureport annually to the Division and make accountings of the funds entrusted to change would be less upsetting

This year, however, Dever and Carr are dividing headlong into the primary to work for the nomination of Representative Robert F. Murphy of Malden for Governor, State Treasurer Foster Furcolo of Longmeadow for U. S. Senator and Civil Service Commissioner Clement A. Riley of Norwood for State Treasurer.

Murphy, Furcolo and Riley all are being vigorously challenged in the primary which will be held three weeks from next Tuesday. One or more of them conceivably could be defeated. Such a development would be construed as a distinct twenty-ninth annual convention rebuke to the State Convention by the of the New England Region, American Jewish Congress.

In working for Murphy, Carr is being a good soldier in the political ranks be-cause one of the first things Murphy's supporters did after their man had been endorsed by the State Convention was to try to oust Carr from the Democratic State Committee chairmanship. The move failed by a handful of votes. But instead of sulking in his tent or looking for a back into which to plunge a knife, Carr is now working energetically in behalf of the man who endeavored to give him the heave-ho. That may not be typical of politics, but it is typical of Carr's loyalty to the Democratic party.

Two names which figured in the news last week brought back memories of the strange convention held at Philadelphia in the summer of 1948, when Henry A. Wallace was nominated as the Progressive Vito Marcantonio, who dropped dead last week, was one of the mainstays of the Progressive Party convention. He was a fiery orator, and from the press box at Philadelphia's Shibe Park on a hot July night six years ago, he looked like Adolf Hitler as he shouted himself into a frenzy and wildly waved his arms. Marcantonio was a member of Congress at the time. Two years later, the Democratic, Republican and Liberal parties got together and backed a coalition candidate against him to retire him from public life.

Glen H. Taylor, nominated last week as a Democratic candidate for Senator in Idaho, was a member of the U. S. Senate back in 1948, when he teamed up with Taylor had strummed and sung his way into the Senate with his "geetar" and his ballads. But when he went back to Idaho after the Progressive Party debacle, the Democrats wanted no more part of him, and in 1950 he was defeated.

While enough Democrats evidently forgave him to make possible his nomination, it is considered highly improbable that Taylor will get far in the coming campaign, and it is anticipated that Republican Senator Henry C. Dworshak will retain his seat without too much trouble.

Taylor's election would just about give Idaho claim to the title of No. 1 screw-ball State of the nation. He was bad enough as a "geetar" player and ballad singer, but his career ended when, like singer, but his career ended when, like Wallace, he allowed himself to be duped by communists of various shades and

Hay Fever Victims Better Watch Out -- Ragweed on Move

Ragweed pollen, as many of the New England population red-nosed hay fever sufferers already testify, is with us again.

Dr. Henry I. Shahon of Bay State road, head of the Allergy Department of the Boston Evening Clinic, said today that pollen grains are gradually coming in the air and will reach a peak about the middle of August or the first week of September. The Clinic specialist said that almost no area of the New England states is entirely free of the pesky pollen. Only about 20 of the micropollen grains are required to produce an irritation in a sensitized person, Dr. Shahon said. He pointed out that patients are now being received at the Boston Evening Clinic in the convenient evening hours for working people at convenient cost .

"There is good news for many of the nation's allergy sufferers ments in electrostatic air filters and medications have been de veloped, but that caution should be used in their applications," the doctor said.

He warned that users of antihistamine drugs used as treatment for hay fever allergy should avoid operating automobiles or other machinery while undergoing this type of Roofing

Normally, a lawn can go at least two weeks without cut-ting in August. However, when you come back, be sure to set the cutter bar on the lawn mower as high as possible. Cutting a lawn at one inch height after it has been allowed to grow four or five inches may result in burning of the crowns. One of my neighbors hired a boy to cut his lawn while he was away on vacation. The boy decided to use his own power mower instead of my neighbor's hand mower. fortunately, the cutter bar on the power mower was set too close to the ground and the lawn never recovered until the following spring. If you are now cutting your lawn at a two-inch height be sure to con-

Monday Night

A "tap-on-door" campaign the interest of the March of Dimes fund, will be held throughout the city Monday night commencing at 6 o'clock. During Monday night, volunteer workers will go from door to door seek-ing funds for the polio fund campaign which, to date, is lagging.

Newton's quota for the campaign which will end next week is $13,000 and to date only $2,482.35 has been secured for this most worthy cause. Residents who are solicited next Monday night are urged to be as generous as possible so that victims of polio may be given proper hospitalization.

There is still a need for more volunteers to aid in this "tap-on-door" campaign next Monday night and teen-agers, particularly, are urged to vol-unteer their services for a few hours. They may do so by calling Marjorie Proctor, LAsell 7-2717 or Mrs. Capaldo, BIgelow 4-5628.

Twenty-five Marine and Naval air stations from coast to coast are taking part in the largest scale summer maneuvers since the cease-fire in Korea. The air reserve squadrons are comprised of officers and enlisted men from all walks of life who are being developed by Marine Corps methods into a constantly ready reserve force of highly trained air fighter specialists on a "part-time" or "week-end" basis, maintaining and developing combat skills vital to the strength of the nation in any emergency. Many of the pilots and enlisted men are veterans of World War II and Korea fighting with distinguished records and decorations while others are young men reservists who meet regularly during the year in preparation for two weeks active under realistically simulated battle conditions. Thev are familiarly known as "Week end Warriors.

Back-to-School

The annual back-to-school movement for more than 900,000 children of the Commonwealth will begin after the Labor Day holiday weekend.

Thousands of tiny toddlers will leave the protective custody of parents and guardians as they attend school for the first time.

The task of providing maximum safety for all children demands the complete cooperation of parents, school authorities, motorists, and the police officials of state and communities.

Parents must teach their little ones the safe route to school and should, where possible, provide the companionship of older brothers and sisters.

Drivers must be unusually careful and alert to the unpredictable acts of all children and motorists are expected to cooperate in the accident prevention activities of Municipal, State, Metropolitan District Police, and Inspectors of the Registry of Motor Vehicles. Children do not always think of safety. To prevent accidents to children, we must think for them when we are behind the

The dominant figure of the campaign looming ahead, even though he isn't running for anything, will be Dwight D. Eisenhower, who will be spearheading the fight to maintain Republican control over the two branches of Congress.

All the polls and tests of public sentiment indicate that President Eisenhower is still tremendously popular, that he has almost as much public appeal as he did when he achieved his sweeping victory

He is undeniably stronger that the Republican party he heads, but it is extremely doubtful that he can carry as many G.O.P. Congressmen into office this year, as he did two years ago, when his name appeared on the ballot.

If Mr. Eisenhower is not as effective a political force this year as he was in 1952, and it is unlikely that he can be, then the Republican party will lose control of at least one branch of Congress and possibly both chambers.

Should the G.O.P. maintain even a slim margin of superiortiy in the two houses of Congress, it will mean that Ike's popularity has increased in some parts of the country.

At this writing it appears that the Republicans have a better chance of holding the Senate than the House, but there is no certainty that they can hold either, faced as they are with the possible loss of Senate seats in Worthelessend November 2018. of Senate seats in Kentucky and New Jersey.

It is a sound political maxim that the party in power loses strength in a midterm election. Only once since the nation was founded has the party rul-ing the White House strengthened its grip on Congress between Presidential elections. That was in 1934 when the late Franklin D. Roosevelt's popularity was at its height, and it was the forerunner to the Democratic avalanche of 1936 that saw F.D.R. carry every State in the Union except Maine and Vermont.

So small is present Republican margin of control in Congress that even a less than nommal loss in the coming elections would mean a shift of control into Democratic hands.

In the Senate there are now 48 Republicans, 47 Democrats and one Independent, and in the House there are 219 Republicans, 213 Democrats and one Independent.

The reason the G.O.P. is so seriously menaced in this campaign is that never before has any political party won so overwhelming a victory in a Presidential election and carried Congress by so small a margin as did the Republicans in 1952. President Eisenhower carried 76 Congressional districts in which Republican candidates dropped so far behind him that they were defeated.

Political analysts have argued from time to time as to whether those figures reflect the strength or weakness of Ike's coattails. It is difficult, however, to see how they can be interpreted as indicating anything but the President's tremendous vote-getting appeal, and it seems safe to estimate that if he had not been running, the G.O.P. would have lost both houses by wide margins.

One safe and sound forecast that can be made is that most Democratic candidates will carefully refrain from any open attack on President Eisenhower. In fact, some of them will emphasis the important Democratic backing Ike received on certain phases of his program. That is why there may be a little hesitancy in some quarters about mustering Harry Truman and Adlai Stevenson onto the campaign firing line.

An idea of the extent to which G.O.P. candidates are hoping to ride back into Congress on the Eisenhower coattails may be obtained from the fact that on the day Ike left on his Denver vacation he posed for pictures with 39 Republicans, each planning to use the photograph in his reelection campaign. This made a total of 159 such pictures which have been

His pronouncement immediately brought an outcry of protests from Mc-Carthy's supporters in the Republican party who circulated a petition demanding ing officer at Fort Monmouth, whose name figured in the McCarthy-Pentagon hearings.

Congressman Charles R. Howell, Case's Democratic opponent, has maintained a discreet silence concerning Mc-Carthy, despite persistent demands that a copy of the decision of Judge Daniel T. O'Connell of Suffolk he tell where he stands. Since Howell is a member of the ADA, there isn't much doubt as to his attitude toward McCarthy, but at the moment he is keeping it to him-

Some political observers in New Jersey commend Case for having the courage to speak his mind on the most controversial figure in American politics, but they add that in doing so he may have cost himself any chance of winning a place in the U.S. Senate.

There is no doubt that Case lost some support in his own party as a result of his denunciation of McCarthy, but the question which will not be answered until November 2 is whether he gained enough Democratic votes to make the move a shrewd one.

President Eisenhower, of course, is supporting Case and has paid warm tribute to his record in Congress. But there is an undercurrent of feeling that Ike will is an undercurrent of feeling that Ike will introduce evidence in support not be able to pick up the applecart which of the truth of the facts stated Case unceremoniously tipped over. The in the several pleas. political seers will be closely watching the returns in that contest.

The big issue in the runoff primary to be held in Texas on Saturday is the action of Courses Allen Shiyong in belting the of Governor Allan Shivers in bolting the Democratic party and supporting President Eisenhower in 1952.

If Shivers is defeated, it will be because a majority of the Democrats in the Lone Star State have not forgiven him for taking an elephant ride two years ago. for taking an elephant ride two years ago.

Under ordinary circumstances Judge Ralph Yarborough would be no match for Shivers. He ran a poor second to Shivers in 1952 but battled him almost neck and neck in the inconclusive primary on July facts." In view of the failure 24 of this.

Shivers has defeated his action in backing President Eisenhower, declaring that Ike's victory saved the off-shore oil lands for Texas and comparing the Eisenhower administration very favorably to the Truman regime.

Another factor which may injure Shivers is that he is fighting tradition in seeking a third term which no Texas Governor ever has won. The main issue against him, however, is his 1952 bolt.

RANDOM CLIPPINGS

Income tax officials in Australia evidently have a keener sense of humor than do their counterparts in the U.S. The London Daily Express reports that a resident of Adelaide, Australia, informed that he owed three cents in taxes, purchased a three-cent stamp, wrapped it in a large package and mailed it with this note:

"Hi, diddle, diddle.

"Your stamp's in the middle."

He received back an even larger bundle containing his stamp and the following message:

"Hip, hip hooray, you still have to pay." "We don't take stamps here anyway."

Canadian Air Force Veteran William Bagler was sentenced to 21 days in jail because he punished his wife by dressing her in pajamas and an R.C.A.F. raincoat, putting a knapsack full of bricks on her back and making her march a pack drill in the basement of their home. The unsym-pathetic attitude of the judge must have been a blow to many irate husbands.

Holtz Charges Ike Unfair to Federal Workers

President Eisenhower has made a political football of Federal employees Jackson J. Holt, past National Command-er of the Jewish War Veterans and former Assistant U. S. Attorney for Massachusetts, declared today.

Holtz, the Democratic nomi nee for Congress from West Roxbury, Roxbury, Allston, Jamaica Plain, and all of Newton and Brookline, had sent a telegram to the President urging approval of wage increases for the postal workers, when he said, "It became apparent that the wages of Federal employegs, especially postal workers were going to be juggled on the political field for ex-

"The workers," Holtz said, should not be sacrificed because a political party wants to make a budgetary record." "It is not fair to tie in a jump in postal rates with pay increases. That is not proper administration of a public body. If postal rates have to be increased, then let's stand on our feet and raise the rates -after telling the public the reason for it. But don't make the poor worker the goat or make him the person who must carry the burden.
"The cost of living has jumped-everything costs more today than yesterday, and these workers—like everybody else—must eat and have ample food on their tables for their families. Pay envelopes provide this. "They are entitled," Holtz said, "to the same consideration given other workers—a raise in pay when conditions demand it—as has been amply proven by the postal workers time and time again." Holtz said, "Administration of public affairs carries with it the obligation of humaneness This humaneness is recognized in other businesses by collective bargaining of unions with management. In public affairs there is not this kind of bargaining. Thus the Administration must be humane and con sider the worker."

Bills Owed Hospitals for Polio Patients Now Over $2 Million

Asks Early and Frequent Deposit Of All Mail

Soical and fraternal organizations, business firms, local stores, as well as the general mailing public, are urged by Postmaster Joseph P. W. Finn to cooperate in the appeal of the postal service for frequent and earlier deposit of mail.

It is recommended that organization notices and literature be deposited in the morning. Persons on their way to work should deposit their personal correspondence rather than hurry to the mail box at night.

Business firms and local stores are asked to place at least fifty percent of their mail at the postoffice, in the corner mail box or building mailing chute by noon. Postmaster Finn commented that a substantial part of the current evening mail could be deposited by Noon or held until the following morning without serious consequences in time of delivery. Many stores and business executives have assured the postmaster that they would order such a program put into effect.

'It is the smaller stores and offices which, in the aggregate, represent a tremendous volume of our evening mail. If these patrons could witness the great problem assigned to the postoffice between five and nine o'clock each night, they would be most willing to assist by depositing their mail earlier," said Mr. Finn.

Postal workers are happy to report that membership in the "Morning Mailing Club" is increasing rapidly as more and more individuals and firms are taking advantage of the benefits offered to the postal operations and to the public through early deposit of letters, newspapers, organization notices, bills, statements, circulars, etc.
